Strengthening Alaska's libraries to provide the best service possible to the people of Alaska.

Alaska libraries have a long and proud tradition of informal collaboration between themselves. When librarians worked together, their projects were said to come from the Alaska Library Network. After more than 30 years of these collaborations, a formal organization was created to administer and coordinate a number of existing programs and services as well as develop new ones. In 2007, the Alaska Library Network became a formal entity and is now an independent non-profit and tax exempt organization working on behalf of all Alaskan libraries.

The Alaska Library Network is a collaborative venture supported by funds from the Institute of Museum and Library Services through the Library Services and Technology Act and its member libraries. The network is also sustained through the generous work effort of Alaska Library Network member librarians, the Alaska State Library, and the University of Alaska Consortium Library.

Alaska Summer Reading Program

- Summer Reading National Partners

Each summer, public libraries in Alaska host summer reading programs designed to promote, encourage and support literacy; while also keeping students reading. These summer reading programs recognize that students need to practice reading if they are going to mitigate and reverse the summer slide. Additionally, these summer reading programs have a positive effect on family literacy, as students involved in summer reading model positive reading behavior. To support Summer Reading, the Alaska State Library is a member of the Collaborative Summer Library Program (CSLP).

The Foundation for Reading Begins at Birth

The Ready to Read Resource Center, a project of the Anchorage Public Library, is a statewide resource for families and those who work with infants and toddlers anywhere in Alaska.

The Center’s mission is to promote early literacy development in Alaska’s children (from birth to age three). To achieve this mission, the Center:

- Loans free reading kits to parents/caregivers as well as to organizations that serve infants and toddlers (child care providers, libraries, health clinics, faith-based organizations, etc.)
- Makes presentations to educate and advocate for early literacy

With over 250 reading kits containing nearly 6,000 items, the Ready to Read Resource Center hopes to engage all of Alaska’s youngest children with high quality, age-appropriate books.

Continuing Education (CE) Grants

Changes to the continuing education grants for FY2017:

1. Each public library outlet is now eligible for just ONE CE grant per fiscal year.
2. Each CE grant, whether for in-state or out-of-state travel, will now be reimbursed up to $1,250.

In order to help public libraries meet the continuing education requirement for the Public Library Assistance Grant, the State Library encourages staff in public or combined school public libraries to apply for CE grants, an ongoing grant program that reimburses the cost of training. Every library director must attend at least six (6) hours of training once every two years for her library to remain eligible for the Public Library Assistance Grant.

Public libraries that are currently receiving the Public Library Assistance Grant may apply for financial assistance for ONE event, conference, or course per fiscal year. The proposed CE opportunities must be approved in advance by the State Library Continuing Education Coordinator. Actual costs, not to exceed $1,250.00 for in-state or out-of-state training, will be reimbursed. For more guidelines, read the grant description.
